DISCLAIMER
Many Wild Edibles and Gardens are located on private property. You must have permission from the owner to enter their property/harvest any food. Food Maps are for educational purposes only and are not intended for the commission of any crime.

WHAT IS FOOD MAPPING?
Food Mapping is a participatory exercise that engages communities in creating art, while mapping food sources and related community resources. These activities and this map stimulate conversation about improving the overall health of the neighborhood.

For more information about food mapping or this map contact Alan Wight at Robert.Wight@thechristcollege.edu.

MOUNT AUBURN GARDEN INITIATIVE & COLLABORATION

The Mt. Auburn Gardens Initiative & Collaboration (MAGIC) is a neighborhood based effort between many groups and individuals in Mt.Auburn. This initiative is focused on engaging residents in healthy behaviors though gardening, recreation, and neighborhood beautification activities. MAGIC is working with schools and community groups to activate green space, revive community gardens, and create public food forest pocket parks.
